Gentlemen:

Some time ago a member of our firm came into possession of a collection of Chinese and Indian coins, and is about to catalogue the same. These coins are placed in small divisions and he proposes to put each coin on a card. We have had these cards printed as per sample enclosed. Can you perhaps suggest any improvement? Will you kindly answer by return mail, and oblige,

Yours truly,

R. L. & M. Friedlander.

Dear Sir:

I have received your letter of August 24th. In making cards of this kind each individual must ues his own judgment as to just what information he desires to place on them, I would think. however, that the name of the ruler, as well as the dynasty, would be well to have, and with the Chinese coins of the present dynasty the name of the mint is also of importance.

Very truly yours,

Director.
